Sandy Bay campus set to harmonise

The University of Tasmania's Community Friends and Networks Programme, in collaboration with the Tasmanian University Union, will celebrate Australia's diversity with a range of activities tomorrow (Tuesday 24 March) in recognition of Harmony Day.

Harmony Day is a day of cultural respect for everyone who calls Australia home – from the traditional owners of this land, to those who have come from many countries around the world.

Harmony Day entertainment includes

- A flash mob performance
- Tasty cultural delicacies
- The University's Human Library
- Diversity-tea corner
- Multicultural stalls
- Entertainment, including dance and music

Turning up in a traditional costume automatically enrolls you in into a 'best culturally dressed' competition and there are prizes are up for grabs.

Event details

Date: Tuesday 24 March 2015.
