New UTAS students share in study boost

A group of new UTAS students has shared in more than $100,000 worth of bursary and scholarship funds as part of the 2013 West North-West Bursary Scheme.

More than 25 scholarship and bursary prizes were awarded today at a special ceremony, held at the UTAS Cradle Coast Campus.

Family and friends of award winners joined prize sponsors, local industry, government and business people for the event.

“These awards make such a difference to a student’s life,” UTAS Pro Vice-Chancellor (Regional Development) and Cradle Coast Campus Director Professor Janelle Allison said.

“It can assist them in so many ways – travel, accommodation, books, - that it can often mean the difference between attending university or not.

“It wouldn’t be possible without the generosity and support of local business, government and individuals; all of whom provide invaluable encouragement to prospective university students.”

The scholarships and bursaries help to provide financial assistance to prospective UTAS students from the Cradle Coast region.
