Our thoughts for missing men, families and loved ones

Media statement by University Vice-Chancellor Professor Peter Rathjen:

“Our University community has been deeply saddened by the loss of four of its members, those confirmed drowned and those still missing.

“These young men – two staff and two students – were well known and popular within the University and broader community.

“Our thoughts are with their families, friends and loved ones at this very sad time.

“We have processes to support for staff and students through difficult times and those are in place as a result of this terrible event.”
