Identity explored through risqué themes

Attempts on Her Life by Martin Crimp will be performed by graduating students from the Tasmanian College of the Arts theatre class of 2014.

Martin Crimp's 17 scenarios for the theatre, Attempts on Her Life, covers themes from civil war to pornography; consumerism to terrorism; ethnic violence to unprotected sex.

The audience peers through Crimp's camera into a world that attempts to define an individual: Anne the artist, traveller, terrorist, and refugee from civil war. Through the construction of Anne's mythical identity, the audience is dragged kicking and screaming to a reflective place that challenges the construct of their own self.

The cast features Isabelle Allen, Laura Eastley, Michael Lemmer, Lucy Pullen, Zoe Vandervelde and Zoe Whiley under the direction of Matt Delbridge.

Attempts on Her Life is showing at The Annexe Theatre, Inveresk for four shows only, from October 15-18 at 7pm. It contains adult themes suitable for audiences 15 years and over.
