Working at UTAS Cradle Coast campus ticks the right boxes

UTAS Cradle Coast campus has been officially recognised as a great place to work in this year's Employer of Choice Awards.

The awards were presented today by the Tasmanian Minister for Economic Development Lara Giddings.

UTAS Vice-Chancellor Professor Daryl Le Grew congratulated the campus on the win.

"This is great news for our Cradle Coast campus and it is heartening to win an award that recognises efforts put in place to ensure staff enjoy coming to work and want to stay there," Prof. Le Grew said.

"The University is proud of its staff across the state and appreciative of their professionalism and commitment to this institution.

"In particular I would like to thank Campus Director Professor Janelle Allison for the leadership she is showing in the North West region of the state."

Prof Le Grew said that Cradle Coast campus staff submitted as part of their entry that the campus was a great place to work for a number of reasons, including the support provided by the University in terms of personal and professional development, and the ability to manage work/life balance."

Cradle Coast staff also singled out the encouragement provided by the University for involvement in community service projects and leadership programmes as another positive.

The Employer of Choice awards are presented annually to identify Tasmanian employers who have embedded positive practices and staff opportunities within their workplace.
