UTAS Cradle Coast Arts students receive top honours

Six UTAS Arts students have received top honours for their academic efforts in the annual Faculty prize ceremony.

The Faculty of Arts Cradle Coast Prizes celebrates a student's academic accomplishment in their first year of study, achieving the highest level of performance within a disciplinary area.

"The first year of study can be very demanding for new students, where they not only have to perform academically, but also understand university processes and practices," UTAS Faculty of Arts Dean Professor Susan Dodds said.

"These awards honour the dedication and commitment students put into their studies, helping to pave the way for future academic success."

The students were awarded the prizes including a certificate and book voucher today at a ceremony attended by family and friends at the UTAS Cradle Coast Campus.

The 2013 Faculty of Arts Cradle Coast Campus prize winners include:

- Best First Year Arts Student – Overall – Raymond Yaxley
- Best First Year - Psychology – Raymond Yaxley
- Best First Year – English – Anna Winter
- Best First Year – History – Lisa Hopwood
- Best First Year – Classics – Janine O'Leary
- Best First Year – Sociology – Evie Gillam
- Best First Year – Government – Brenda Griechen
