COVID-19 update

Please find below a copy of the message University of Tasmania Director of Safety and Wellbeing Chris Arnold has just sent to staff and students:

Dear colleagues and students,

We have received updated advice from the Public Health Office regarding the confirmed case of COVID-19.

The woman, who is in her 30’s, was also on the Sandy Bay campus on Tuesday 10 March. She attended the Morris Miller Library between 8.30am and 12.30pm and she also briefly visited Lazenby’s café during that time.

The advice from Health remains as it was earlier:

- There have been no close contacts and for the people who were at those places there is very low risk.
- They need to monitor themselves for 14 days and if they become sick notify the public hotline on 1800 671 738.
- They should go on with their lives as normal.
- There is no need for the University to close or clean any of the settings above their normal routine.

If you have concerns or questions, please phone our help desk on 03 6226 2600.

Kind regards,

Chris Arnold
Director, Safety and Wellbeing

Media contact: Ben wild – 0438 510 616

Information released by:
Communications Office
University of Tasmania